7 to 6 at the end of that period. In the fourth quarter, the Orange and Black got their offense working and finished on the long end of a 22 to 6 count. Having but three days' practice with a full team before the game, Ashland's teamwork was ragged in the first half and somewhat handicapped by unfamiliarity with the signals.

Of the starting backs, Frank Smith, all-Kentucky half-back at the University of Kentucky, gained the most ground with slashing charges off tackle, while Perry, Winters and Tynes cut in for short gains with regularity, but could not get past the Koors' strong secondary defense. On defense the entire Armco line held beautifully, the Koors being unable to gain except on an occasional forward pass. Wark and Gorill at the ends turned back everything sent their way, while Winters, who did the punting in the first half, outkicked his opponents by a wide margin. Perry and Tynes backed up the line in great style and broke up numerous forward passes which the Koors attempted when their running attack failed.

At the half, Elliston went in at right end, Roberts at left tackle, Ware relieved Smith at half, and Grone went to center for Rapp. The Koors centered their attack on Elliston's end and after getting within scoring distance for the first time in the game, Shaner shot a 25 yard pass to Mahrt, who went over for a touchdown, making the score 7 to 6.

Armco soon brought the ball inside the 10 yard line on a sustained drive which included two 20 yard passes from Winters to Ware and Perry, and Tynes carried it over for Armco's second touchdown. The third touchdown came a few minutes later following an exchange of punts and a beautiful 30 yard run by Winters; the goal was missed and in the closing minutes of play with the score 19 to 6, Brashares partially blocked a punt which Armco covered on the 15 yard line. Ware took it to the 5 yard line on a forward pass from Rapp and on the next play Ware drop-kicked a field goal, making the count 22 to 6 just before the whistle blew.

The difference between this and the 6-0 score last year just about measures the comparative strength of this year's team over the 1926 aggregation. Setron, Gorill, Roberts, Petcoff and Herb Rapp have added great strength to the line. The addition of Winters, Smith and Ware to Perry, Tynes and Stuart, holdovers from last year, has practically doubled the team's offensive punch. Smith and Ware, the two Kentucky college boys, attracted special attention of the fans and are sure to be added to the list of favorites if they maintain the form they showed on opening day. The addition of a veteran quarterback of Sonny Winters' ability has also greatly helped the offense. Two more hard games will be played during the next two weeks against the Cleveland Panthers and Middletown Armco. Then come the Tanks, and the club's backers are confident that they will take them over when the Big Red machine, four times winners over Armco in two years, invades Ashland on October 16.
